May Events!

Sometimes, it snows in April. And, sometimes, you organise more than one event in May. Yes, this year, we have two May events that should interest you. First, the 2021 Global Health PhD and Postdoc Writing Retreat is coming up; a collaboration between expert workshop facilitators and several organisations, including Uniting Streams. The Writing Retreat is then concluded with our second event: in celebration, we are bringing back the TropQuiz. Find out how to register for both events in this newsflash.

This online event is organised by Julius Global Health, Uniting Streams, and Action on Preeclampsia Ghana, in collaboration with North-West University South Africa, and The Netherlands Society for Tropical Medicine and International Health.

Do you find yourself telling your friends, family, or coworkers weird global health facts? Lucky for you: we do too.

Do you know your SDG from your BCG?

Do you know where cow dung is used for medicinal purposes?

Do you know if monkeys can die from HIV?

Why not put that knowledge to the test during the TropQuiz: our global health pub quiz? We will be celebrating the finale of the Global Health Writing trivia.

You can register as a team (max. 5 members) or register individually, and we'll put you in a team. You can do both via this link (or click on the flyer)!

If you have any questions about the registration, don't hesitate to email us via: info@unitingstreams.org
